

CALL FOR PAPER:

Arts, Humanities, and Complex Networks —4th Leonardo satellite symposium taking place in Copenhagen at DTU – Technical University of Denmark, on Tuesday, June 4, 2013.

ABSTRACT:

The overall mission of the symposium is to bring together pioneer work in the overlap of arts, humanities, network research, data science, and information design. The 2013 symposium will leverage interaction between those areas by means of keynotes, a number of contributions, and a high-profile panel discussion.

In our call, we are looking for a diversity of research contributions revolving around networks in culture, networks in art, networks in the humanities, art about networks, and research in network visualization. Focussing on these five pillars that have crystallized out of our previous meetings, the 2013 symposium strives to make further impact in the arts, humanities, and natural sciences.

Running parallel to the NetSci2013 conference, the symposium provides a unique opportunity to mingle with leading researchers in complex network science, potentially sparking fruitful collaborations.

As in previous years, selected papers will be published in print, both in a Special Section of Leonardo Journal MIT-Press and in a dedicated Leonardo eBook MIT-Press (see below).

CONFIRMED KEYNOTE SPEAKERS INCLUDE:

Paolo Ciuccarelli, Scientific Director, DensityDesign Research Lab & Associate Professor, Politecnico di Milano, Italy
Denny Vrandečić, Wikimedia Foundation, Germany

ORGANIZING COMMITTEE:

Maximilian Schich, Associate Professor, ATEC, The University of Texas at Dallas, USA
Roger Malina, Executive Editor at Leonardo Publications, France/USA
Isabel Meirelles, Associate Professor, Dept. of Art + Design, Northeastern University, USA

SUBMISSIONS:

We invite you to submit a 300 word abstract including one descriptive figure by March 31st, 2013 using our EasyChair submission link:

<https://www.easychair.org/conferences/?conf=ahcn2013>

IMPORTANT DATES:

Deadline for applications: March 31, 2013.

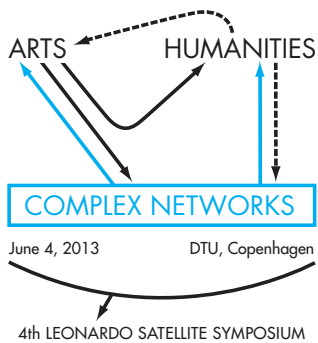

Notifications of acceptance will be sent out by April 8, 2013.

Date of symposium: Tuesday, June 4, 2013, in Copenhagen, Denmark, at DTU – Technical University of Denmark.

ATTENDANCE:

Attendance to our symposium is free of charge. As space is limited, we require registration via EventBrite. The wait list is now open at <http://ahcn2013.eventbrite.com/>.

We encourage everyone to also register for the main NetSci2013 conference. For the NetSci2013 registration fee and deadline please see: <http://www.netsci2013.net>.

ABOUT NETSCI:

The International Conference on Network Science 2013, NetSci2013, in Copenhagen, Denmark, from June 3 to 7, 2013 focuses on interdisciplinary research on networks from various disciplines such as economy, biology, medicine, or sociology, and aims to bring new network analytic methods from physics, computer science, math, or statistics to the attention of a large and diverse audience.
